University of Maryland Golf Course

An 18-hole semi-private championship golf course located on the north perimeter of the University of Maryland's flagship campus in College Park, the University of Maryland Golf Course is the home of the Terrapins' men's and women's golf teams.

Open year-round, the 6,700-yard championship course features a newly constructed clubhouse which was completed in April 1999. The course has long been the site of numerous state and regional tournaments, and the 35,000-sq. ft., plantation-style clubhouse has become a gathering point for campus and surrounding communities.

The clubhouse upper level features a full-service bar, grill and banquet facility that seats 75 for lunch and tournament events, and can handle groups from eight to 200 including a banquet facility whose outdoor patio overlooks the course. Its main level features management offices, a fully-equipped pro shop with the latest styles of Terrapin golf attire, men's and women's locker facilities, and a Terrapin golf suite with offices, separate locker rooms and a lounge for the Terps' men's and women's teams.

Designed by George Cobb and built in 1955, the course plays 50,000 rounds per year with preference given to students, faculty, staff and alumni. Its semi-private facilities include a 5,000-sq. ft. putting green and a 45-station driving range.

Women's Season Preview

Now in its fourth season, the Maryland women's golf team can finally boast its first full four-year senior class. Erin Clasper, Carter Crowther, Jennifer Gibson and Holly Thornton have been with the team since the beginning and will lead a veteran team in 2002-03, one that also consists of four juniors and one sophomore.

"There's not really one player who is clearly head and shoulders above the rest," said head coach Jason Rodenhaver, who has also been with the team since its inception in 1999 and built the program from scratch. However, he added that Clasper is team captain for the second year in a row, and he expects her to lead the team on and off the course. "I don't know where I'd be without her," he said.

Clasper competed in all four fall tournaments in 2002, and averaged a team-best 77.91 strokes per round. She cracked the top 25 at three of the tournaments, including a 15th-place finish to lead the Terps to ninth at the Lady Pirate Fall Intercollegiate in Greenville, N.C."

Junior Marie Harper joined Clasper as the only other golfer to compete in all four fall tournaments, with her best performance coming in the final tournament of the season, the Edwin Watts/Palmetto Intercollegiate in Kiawah Island, S.C., where she tied for 15th place at seven over par for the tournament, and tied her career best with two rounds of 74.

After sitting out the season-opening Lady Kat invitational in Lexington, Ky., Crowther competed in the final three tournaments, ending the season strong with a 14th-place finish at the Edwin Watts/Palmetto Intercollegiate to lead the Terps. Crowther carded a par 72 in the third round, the team's only round of par in the fall, to finish six over par for the tournament.

Rodenhaver expects his five-person lineup to change throughout the year. "The fall was about finding a lineup that works," he said. "We have the luxury that we're deep enough and have enough talent that if some girls aren't playing well, we can make some changes."

After placing ninth, sixth and ninth at the first three tournaments of the fall, the Terps ended the season on a high note, finishing fourth at the Edwin Watts/Palmetto Intercollegiate, the team's highest finish of the season. The Terps shot a collective 904, including a third-round 298, the first time the team has broken 300 for a round in the brief history of the program.

"We finished on a high note. Edwin Watts gave the team confidence and momentum going into the spring, and it puts us in position to do great things and hopefully get an NCAA [tournament] bid. That's always our goal," Rodenhaver said.

The Atlantic Coast Conference boasts two of the nation's top 25 teams. Reigning ACC and NCAA champion Duke holds the No. 5 spot, while North Carolina ranks 17th. Rodenhaver won't make any predictions on where the Terps will finish in the conference."We just want to improve on last year and get better every day, every tournament," he said.

Maryland last year competed in four of this spring's five tournaments, including the Hatter Spring Fling in Daytona Beach, Fla., and the Lady Dukes Invitational in Harrisonburg, Va. The Terps placed fifth at both events. The spring season begins February 28 at the Edwin Watts/Carolinas Collegiate Classic in Pinehurst, N.C., and concludes April 18-20 at the ACC Championship in Clemmons, N.C.

Women's Head Coach Jason Rodenhaver

4th Season at Maryland • Maryland '94

Jason Rodenhaver, who has overseen the development of the University of Maryland women's golf program since its inception in 1999, is in his fourth season as the Terrapins' head coach.

A former Terrapin player and assistant coach for the university's men's golf team, Rodenhaver was selected to oversee the women's golf program on Nov. 19, 1998. It was then that he began the enviable task of building a brand new program that launched during the fall of 1999. A professional golfer, Rodenhaver enthusiastically made the move to the coaching ranks and is creating a new era at the University of Maryland.

With his sights set firmly on developing a solid foundation for the program, Rodenhaver has been given the resources necessary to compete at the national level. His playing and coaching experiences coupled with his competitive spirit and drive to be successful can mean only one thing for the women's golf program at Maryland: eventual long-term success.

Under his guidance, the Terps made their presence known in only their second full season, tying for first place at the James Madison Lady Dukes Invitational in April 2001. On two occasions in the past three seasons, Terrapin golfers have won or shared individual tournament titles.

Rodenhaver was the assistant men's golf coach at Maryland and an assistant golf professional at the University of Maryland Golf Course when he was named to lead the newly created women's program.

"Clearly, Jason was the most qualified and the best fit for his role of our new head coach," said director of athletics Deborah A. Yow upon Rodenhaver's appointment. "Given his level of familiarity with the university and the local golf community, he will jump-start our women's golf program, with the long-range goal of becoming a top 20 team. Women's golf is our 13th sport for female student-athletes. Its addition is the capstone to our six-year gender equity plan."

On the course, Rodenhaver has co-directed Maryland's summer camp for junior golfers and was tournament director of the State Farm Collegiate Players Tour, held at the University of Maryland Golf Course, from 1994-1998. He also organized the UM golf team reunion tournament in 1998 which helped raise $15,000 for the program.

A 1994 graduate of the University of Maryland, Rodenhaver played three seasons for the Terps and led the team to a fifth-place finish at the Atlantic Coast Conference championship in 1994. The finish was Maryland's highest in the conference championship since 1978. Rodenhaver was a two-year captain of the Terrapin men's golf team and a participant in the NCAA East Regional in 1994. He played at Southern Methodist for one season (1990-1991) before transferring to Maryland. He received his bachelor's degree in kinesiology from Maryland in 1994 and is currently pursuing his master's in business administration.

"I truly believe that we are moving in the right direction and are committed to winning both on and off the course," said Rodenhaver. "I want all of our student-athletes to excel both academically and athletically. I want them to be eager to work hard and be the best they can be every day and in every aspect of their lives."

Rodenhaver is a native of Odessa, Texas. Most of his family, including his wife, Robyn, are graduates of University of Maryland. His father is a member of the National Golf Coach's Hall of Fame and a former assistant golf coach at Maryland.

Men's Season Preview

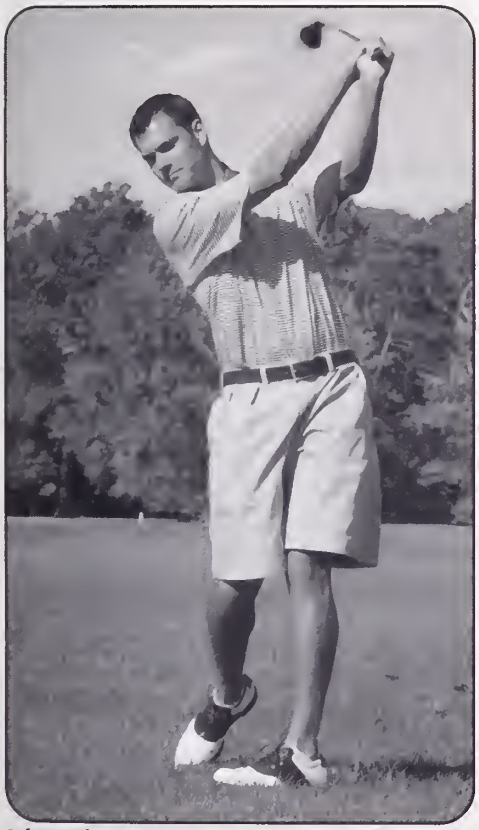
University of Maryland's men's golf team will aim for its second consecutive trip to the NCAA Regionals when it tackles its 10-tournament fall-spring schedule this year.

A year ago, its first playing in the more geographically favorable District II after years as a member of District III-North, the Terps were one of 27 teams advancing to the NCAA Central Regional in Little Rock, Ark.

Maryland wrapped up its first postseason appearance since 1999 with a 21st-place showing at the regional tournament, but two members of that team, including the Terps' leader in strokes per round, have both exhausted their eligibility.

While this year's squad will lack some of the proven firepower provided by former Terps Corey Brigham and Philip Fenstermaker, who combined for four top 10 individual finishes a year ago, 12th-year head coach Tom Hanna feels strongly his current group of Terps has the ability to match and exceed the showing of his 2002 unit.

"I believe we have the talent and capability to return to the NCAA regionals and qualify for the nationals," says Hanna, a former PGA Touring pro. "But it won't be like last year when we could just walk on a golf course and shoot 288 [as a team]. This team is very capable of doing that, but it will have to work hard and pay attention to detail."



John Moheyer

Hanna returns seven letterwinners from his 2001-02 unit, including three of the team's top five in average strokes per round. The 10-man squad also includes a trio of freshmen, all of whom have the ability to crack the starting lineup in their inaugural seasons playing for the Terps, according to the head coach.

John Moheyer, a senior from Lima, Ohio who has played in each of the Terps' 18 tournaments since the spring of 2001, headlines the Terps' roster. Moheyer finished second on the team in scoring average for 2001-02, posting a mark of 73.91 for 13 tournaments. The team's co-captain this year, Moheyer recorded four top 10 finishes as a junior and had seven rounds under par.

"John has the potential to contend for All-ACC and All-America honors," says Hanna of the Terps' most veteran collegiate performer. "He had a great fall season a year ago, when he was the No. 1-ranked player in District II. He struggled some in the spring, but he got things together at the ACC Championships [with rounds of 76-68-74]."

The Terps' three other seniors are Vertti Iso-Ahola, co-captain Scott Ehrlich and Brit Musser, all of whom will look to earn qualifying positions after not seeing any tournament action a year ago.

Junior Tim Kane, out of Simsbury, Conn., returns for his third campaign with the Terps after a strong finish to his sophomore season, when he was the squad's low man at the NCAA Regionals. Kane tied for 45th at the regionals with a three-round score of seven-over after posting rounds of 74-74-75. Kane just missed qualifying for the U.S. Amateur this past summer.

"I'm looking for Tim to take one of the lead roles on this year's team," says Hanna of Kane, who posted a scoring average of 75.44 last season. "His game really came on in the last three or four tournaments last spring, and he played very consistently at the NCAA Regionals. He underwent a major swing change a year ago and stayed with it. He has an unbelievable short game and has gotten very long."

Sophomore Bobby MacWhinnie, who put together a solid freshman campaign a year ago, returns to the squad after finishing with the team's third-best scoring average (74.69) in 2001-02.

"Bobby had a great freshman year," says Hanna."He is a big, strong player with tremendous length. Right now, he's harnessing that strength and converting it into better accuracy."

Scott Ehrlich

Last season at the ACC Championships, MacWhinnie turned in the best-ever round by a freshman under Hanna when he rattled off eight birdies on his way to a final-round 69.

Junior Dan MacDonald, who has seen limited action during his career, is called by Hanna "probably the most improved player on the team....he's someone who could break into the lineup at any time. He has gotten bigger and stronger, and he has a very good work ethic. He has come a long way since his freshman year."

Also expected to contend for time in the starting lineup are a trio of freshmen: Devin Drobbin, John Eades and Jeff Spradlin.

Drobbin, who hails from Holmdel, N.J., was a third-team all-state choice as a senior. Eades, from Charlotte, N.C., was a two-time league Player of the Year who finished fourth in the state championships as a junior and senior. He also advanced to the U.S. Amateur in the summer prior to his senior season. Spradlin, from Leawood, Kan., transferred to Maryland after redshirting the 2001-02 season at Wichita State University. He placed sixth in the state high school championships as a senior.

Men's Head Coach Tom Hanna

12th Season at Maryland • Maryland '71

The obstacles that Maryland men's golf head coach Tom Hanna faced the past few seasons have become strong points as he looks to lead the Terps back amongst the nation's elite. In his 12th season at the helm of the Maryland program, Hanna has high expectations for a team which is coming off an appearance in the NCAA Regionals.

Through more than 25 years of experience in the golf business as a competitor and a coach, Hanna has built himself a strong reputation for building a relatively unknown, under-funded program into a highly competitive team on the national scene. His expertise has translated into some of the most talented programs in Maryland men's golf history, a trend he seeks to continue during the 2002-03 campaign and beyond.

Originally from Lock Haven, Pa., Hanna is no stranger to success in the golf world. During his collegiate playing career with the Terps from 1968-1971, Hanna competed in three consecutive NCAA Tournaments. After graduation, he moved on to compete on the Professional Golf Association (PGA) Tour. After a brief stint in the PGA, Hanna continued to rack up state and local titles in the Philadelphia section of the PGA. Hanna remained on the East Coast, gaining extensive experience as a head professional at several prestigious country clubs. He spent three years at Lock Haven Country Club in his hometown, before taking the head professional job at Centre Hills Country Club in nearby State College, Pa., from 1977-84. From 1985-90, Hanna was the director of golf at the Harbour Towne Golf Course in St. Michaels, Md. In 1991, he returned to his alma mater to take over the reins of the Maryland men's golf program.

The golf program has steadily improved under the supervision of Hanna, exemplified by his 1994 ACC Coach of the Year award after the Terps finished fifth at the ACC Championships, which marked the team's highest finish in 16 years.

In 2000, he guided the Terps to their second NCAA East Regional and consistent top-30 national rankings. The Terps reached the NCAA Central Regional last season.

Hanna also served as the director of the Maryland golf course, a job in which he exerted just as much energy as with the golf team. Hanna helped transform the Maryland golf course into one of the nicest, cleanest, and most popular courses in the area that is used on an annual basis to host numerous local high school golf championships. He recently relinquished his course director duties, but remains heavily involved in ensuring that it remains one of the top courses in the area. Hanna also directs several summer golf camps at the University of Maryland.

Hanna graduated from the University of Maryland in 1971 and received his bachelor's degree in physical education. Hanna and his wife, Kathy, have three children: Betsi, Thomas III, and Jessica.

University Of MARYLAND

"Strive for clarity, but accept and understand ambiguity."

That phrase captures one way in which an educated person approaches the world and its challenges. Students who graduate from the University of Maryland have been exposed to the tools that allow them to put that perspective to work. Imparting such a perspective may be an ambitious project for undergraduate education, but to aim for anything less would be unworthy of a great university's goals for its students. Fifteen years ago, Promises to Keep, a plan for undergraduate education at Maryland, articulated those goals so eloquently we repeat them here.

Undergraduate education at Maryland "aims to provide students with a sense of identity and purpose, a concern for others, a sense of responsibility for the quality of life around them, a continuing eagerness for knowledge and understanding, and a foundation for a lifetime of personal enrichment."

As we learn with and from one another, we try to "develop human values," "celebrate tolerance and fairness," "contribute to the social conscience," "monitor and assess private and collective assumptions," and "recognize the glory, tragedy and humor of the human condition." Your years at the University of Maryland can provide you with all the tools you need to accomplish these goals. Students here are "educated to be able to read with perception and pleasure, write and speak with clarity and verve, handle numbers and computation proficiently, reason mathematically, generate clear questions and find probable arguments, reach substantiated conclusions, and accept ambiguity."

And we also hope you enjoy the journey.

About the University

The Campus

By virtually every measure of quality, the University of Maryland has gained national recognition as one of the fastest rising comprehensive research institutions in the country. The momentum of recent years has poised the university to move it into the top ranks of higher education and take leadership in shaping the research university of the 21st century.

The university has enjoyed a decade of momentum in all of the areas that affect quality, beginning with the quality of our students. For more than 10 years, every freshman class has been the most talented in the university's history, including this year's. Not only are their grade-point averages and SAT scores stellar, about half of them finished in the top 10 percent of their high school graduating class.

But Maryland students excel in more ways than just the classroom. They are leaders in the arts and culture, community service, civic engagement and athletics.

What's more, the student body is a model of diversity, with minorities making up more than 32 percent of all students, and at least one graduate and undergraduate student from every state in the nation.

The university has 65 graduate and undergraduate programs ranked in the Top 25 by U.S. News and World Report, up from just one program in 1991.

Sponsored research and outreach has nearly tripled in the same 10-year period, reaching $308.5 million for FY 01. Private giving has increased even more dramatically, from $17 million to $77 million in FY01. Alumni Association membership has been growing at an average rate of 10 percent a year since 1992.

One of the largest research universities in the United States, current enrollment stands at 25,099 undergraduate and 9,061 graduate. There are 94 undergraduate programs, 89 master's programs, 70 doctoral programs, and one first professional degree program. More than 100 centers and institutes are engaged in research and outreach.

Faculty at the University of Maryland, in all fields of knowledge, are engaged at the highest levels of national and international concern. The university's location near the center of federal policy-making and international political and economic activity enables it to play an active role in research and analysis of public policy.

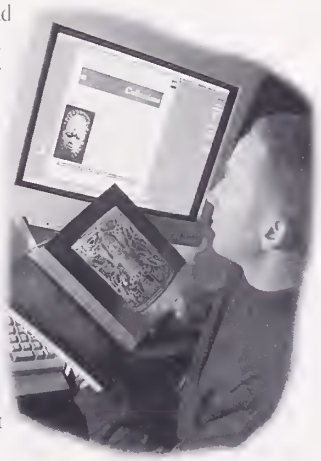
Maryland is one of 30 public universities in the prestigious 63-member Association of American Universities and the only public institution in the Maryland-D.C. area with membership in the nation's most distinguished honor society, Phi Beta Kappa.

Libraries

Seven libraries make up the University of Maryland library system: McKeldin (main) Library, Architecture Library, Art Library, Engineering and Physical Sciences Library, Hornbake Library, Performing Arts Library, White Memorial (Chemistry) Library.

These libraries constitute the largest university research library institution in the Washington metropolitan area, providing vital resources to researchers, visiting scholars, and businesses throughout the region. The libraries' holdings include more than 2.5 million volumes, 24,000 subscriptions to periodicals and nearly 5 million items available in microfilm format.

Research



Opportunities for conducting research abound at the University of Maryland, College Park, and in the surrounding area, both for faculty to advance their own expertise and bring their insights into the classroom, and for students to begin their exploration of their special interests with practical experience. On campus, special facilities and a number of organized research centers, bureaus, and institutes promote the acquisition and analysis of new knowledge in the arts, sciences and applied fields.

The university's enviable location — just nine miles from downtown Washington, D.C., and approximately 30 miles from both Baltimore and Annapolis — enhances the research of its faculty and students by providing access to some of the finest libraries and research centers in the country.

Service

Programs of public service are central to the overall mission of the university. The philosophy is reflected in the wide array of programs and initiatives that benefit the state's business, agriculture and education communities.

With more than 90 high technology firms in the three-county area of Montgomery, Prince George's and Frederick counties, the university has found abundant opportunity to extend its business and technology outreach programs to the region. Many of these programs are part of the Engineering Research Center, which operates the Technology Advancement Program and the Maryland Industrial Partnerships, programs designed to provide Maryland entrepreneurs and small businesses with research facilities, technical assistance, administrative support, and access to technology that will advance their economic base.

The Institute for Systems Research has formed partnerships with major corporations, including Lockheed Martin, Westinghouse, BF Goodrich, Hughes Aircraft and Dupont to apply advanced systems research to solving industry problems in the fields of communications, manufacturing, controls and robotics.

The university last year opened the Clarice Smith Performing Arts Center, with its six state-of-the art performance halls, which has quickly become a center of cultural programming in the Washington metropolitan area. The university also boasts four art galleries and a broad range of public art throughout the beautiful campus. Additionally intercollegiate, club and intramural sports provide students of all levels an opportunity to participate as spectators or athletes.

C.D. Mote Jr.

University President Fifth Year at Maryland • California '59

When C.D. "Dan" Mote Jr. became the 19th president of the University of Maryland on Sept. 1, 1998 he proclaimed it a university "on the move." Four years later, under his guidance, Maryland continues to move – at an ever accelerating rate – on the field, in the classroom, in the community, and in the world.

The University of Maryland is the state of Maryland's most important asset, says Mote: "The future of the state depends on this university."

Fulfilling that responsibility is a big job, but it's a role that Mote is accustomed to, having spent his entire academic career at the University of California at Berkeley, where he earned all his degrees, taught engineering and eventually became vice chancellor for University Relations before coming to Maryland.

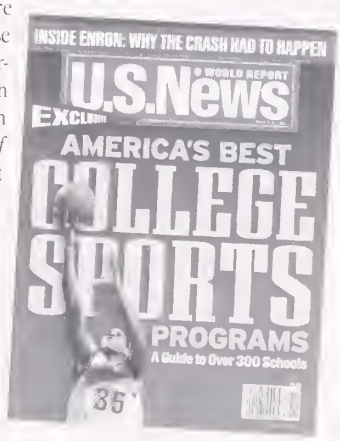
One of Mote's first tasks here was to serve on a governor's task force to examine the funding and organization of the University System of Maryland. The task force recommended, and the General Assembly enacted into law, a reaffirmation of the university's flagship status and a commitment to funding at levels comparable to the best public universities in the nation.

As president, Mote is committed to making that asset even greater by creating a culture of excellence and civility across the campus, continuing to emphasize the highest quality education for students, strengthening the university's internal and external connections, and achieving distinction as an institution where discovery takes place every day and everywhere.

The university's progress in each of these areas can be measured by the quality of its programs; the stature of its faculty; the talent of its students; partnerships with business; impact on the state's economy; its ability to apply discoveries to global, national and regional problems; and its world-class, state-of-the-art facilities.

Quality Programs

Over the past decade, Maryland's programs have been improving by leaps and bounds. We currently have 65 graduate and undergraduate programs ranked in the top 25 nationally by U.S. News & World Report, compared with just one program a decade ago.



While the university's academic successes are across the board, it has emerged as a true powerhouse in business, computer science, earth sciences, engineering, education and journalism. The Robert H. Smith School of Business has achieved top 10 rankings from such beacon publications as the Financial Times of London and the Wall Street Journal. Every department in the College of Education has programs ranked in the U.S. News top 25, and the Counseling and Personnel Services Program has long been ranked tops in the nation.

Faculty Stature

With the addition during Mote's third year of a Nobel Laureate in Physics and three more Pulitzer Prize winners (to join three already on the faculty), Maryland continues to attract the best faculty available. More than 30 faculty are members of the national academies in their fields, the highest professional recognition attainable.

Experts on the Maryland faculty are regularly sought by the news media for their views on a wide variety of issues, including politics, international affairs, social trends, economics, the environment, science and technology.

Deborah A. Yow

Director of Athletics
Ninth Year At Maryland • Elon '74

Deborah A. Yow is in the ninth year of her outstanding tenure as director of athletics at the University of Maryland, a year that has seen unprecedented success and achievement in Maryland athletics. Each year has brought about continued improvement and accomplishment in Terrapin athletics. In Yow's eight years at Maryland, the Terrapins have won a remarkable nine NCAA national championships as Maryland athletics has soared to new heights.

The comprehensive success of Terrapin athletics under Debbie Yow's leadership is a clear and compelling testimony of her values of excellence, teamwork and accountability. Likewise, her election to the presidency of the National Association of Collegiate Directors of Athletics two years ago is an indication of the respect with which she is regarded among its 6,100 members representing 1,600 colleges in the U.S. and Canada. She was recently singled out by Street and Smith Sports Business Journal as one of the leading administrators in the U.S. and she received the Carl Maddox Sport Management Award presented by the United States Sports Academy for excellence in athletics administration.

Yow, who recently served on the NCAA Management Council and the NCAA Division I Budget Committee, is a strong and steady voice on behalf of intercollegiate athletics in America. Since taking over as AD at Maryland in 1994, she and her staff have:

- Transformed Terrapin athletics into a responsive, goal-oriented organization.
- Balanced all eight of the annual department's budgets (the first balanced budgets in the 10 years prior to her arrival). The budget has now reached $40 million annually and the sizable prior operative debts have been eradicated.
- Greatly enhanced the academic support services provided for student-athletes, with an enviable exhausted eligibility graduation rate of approximately 85 percent.
- Led the Terrapins to a national all-sports ranking in the upper 15 percent of all NCAA Division I institutions.
- Significantly expanded marketing and fund-raising efforts on behalf of Terrapin athletics. As a result, private gifts to athletics have increased 240 percent and corporate sponsorship revenues have increased by 275 percent during her tenure at Maryland.
- Continued to dramatically improve venues and facilities for the department's 25 teams.
- Implemented a strategic management model.
- Developed a comprehensive Internet strategy with management, marketing and fund-raising applications.
- Significantly improved customer care in every area.

The most recent achievements of Maryland athletics are exceptional:

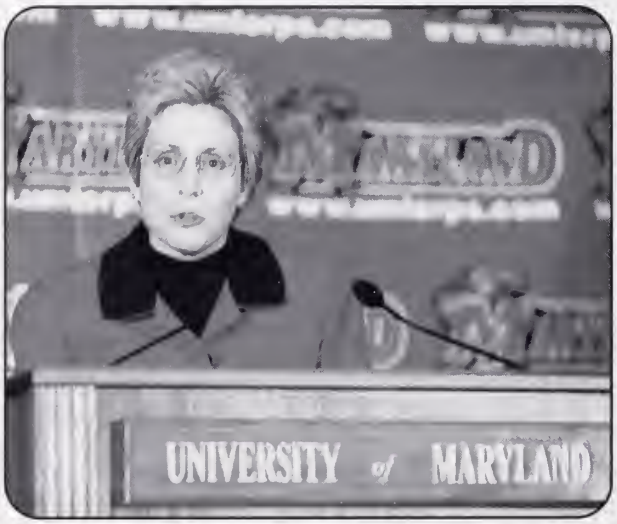
- Selected in 2002 by U.S. News & World Report as one of the Top 20 athletic programs in the nation (for overall quality and competitive excellence).
- In football, won the Atlantic Coast Conference championship and played in the 2002 Orange Bowl. In men's basketball, won the ACC regular season in 2002, as well as the NCAA national championship. The Terps are among only a few NCAA institutions to have achieved at this distinguished level in these sports in the same year.
- Hired the Associated Press National Coach of the Year, Brenda Frese, as the new women's basketball coach.
- Hired Dave Cottle, the third winningest active men's lacrosse coach in the U.S.
- Field hockey played for the national championship.
- Women's lacrosse has continued its winning ways and won seven consecutive national championships through 2001.
- Enhancing football facilities significantly with Team House and practice field upgrades.
- Moved into the new $125 million Comcast Center.
- The athletics budget was balanced for the eighth consecutive year.
- In 2001-02 10 Maryland teams competed in NCAA postseason play.
- The productivity, morale, and the competitive and academic achievement of Terrapin athletics are exceptional and continue to gain momentum.

Regarding the many achievements of Terrapin athletics over the past eight years, Yow says, "We are pleased, but we are not satisfied … our vision is to be one of the top 10 programs in the nation consistently … we see no reason to settle for less."

Yow is known for her goal-oriented and proactive management style. She consistently inspires and challenges those around her to "raise our sights and sharpen our tools … to work hard and work smart … to recognize that our only limitations are those that we place upon ourselves."

As a manager and a leader, she clearly models these principles. She is the only known current AD in NCAA Division I who has hired both the National Coach of the Year in football (while at Maryland) and the National Coach of the Year in men's basketball (while at Saint Louis University). Yow is known as "a coach's AD," while also being a highly organized, strategic and proactive leader and administrator. Quite simply, Debbie Yow personifies the relational and management dynamics that are necessary to be an excellent administrator.

A successful former coach at the University of Kentucky and at the University of Florida, she moved into athletics administration at the University of Florida and the University of North Carolina, Greensboro, followed by a highly successful tenure as AD at Saint Louis University.



She has authored numerous articles and books on athletics management and human behavior, and is a respected leader in intercollegiate athletics in the United States.

Summing up the entire athletics program, Dr. Yow recently observed, "We have the finest student-athletes, coaches, support staff and administrative team in America. It is because of their courage, hard work and cooperative spirit that we now have a strong, viable athletic program. I am immensely proud of each of them. I am equally proud of our Terrapin fans who buy tickets, our Terrapin Club members who faithfully support the Maryland athletic program with their donations for scholarship, and the Maryland Educational Foundation and M Club members who serve and give liberally. We have a great Terrapin family. That's the foundation for all of our success … and the basis for our bright future."

Academic Support & Career Development

The University of Maryland is committed to providing the highest quality education to all of its students. The Department of Intercollegiate Athletics strives to provide student-athletes excellent opportunities to participate in an intercollegiate athletics program of the highest quality, with the result that their athletics participation becomes an integral and valued component of their total educational experience at the university.

Terrapin student-athletes will find that the same hard work and discipline that has earned them success in athletics competition is also required in the classroom. Balancing the significant time demands and responsibilities required to be a successful student-athlete at the highest collegiate level is no small task. Therefore, as a result of their commitment to representing the university through athletics, Terrapin student-athletes are able to utilize support programs designed to meet their specific needs.

Led by associate athletics director Robert Koonce, the mission of the Academic Support and Career Development Unit (ASCDU) is to provide quality developmental programs and need-based services that will enhance academic progress, facilitate career development, and encourage the psychosocial growth of all UM student-athletes.

Assistant Director Don Pearman (left) serves as the Academic Support Director for the golf teams at Maryland.

The Gossett Academic Support and Career Development Center for Terrapin student-athletes, named for long-time Terp supporters Barry and Mary Gossett, is located in the Comcast Center. It features a study center that includes 25 desktop computers, a tutoring center, a classroom, a CHAMPS/Life Skills resource room and individual offices for seven professional academic counselors, an assistant program coordinator and two graduate assistants. In addition, the center's extended site is located in the Gossett Football Team House, and includes office space for two professional counselors, a program assistant and a 23-station desktop computer center.

Student-Athlete Advisory Committee

The Student-Athlete Advisory Committtee (S.A.A.C.) plays an important role in the Department of Intercollegiate Athletics. It consists of two representatives from each varsity sport and meets on a regular basis with representatives from the athletic administration. The S.A.A.C. mission is to enhance the total student-athlete experience by developing leadership skills, promoting student-athlete welfare and fostering a positive student-athlete image on the Maryland campus, local area and nationally.

CHAMPS/Life Skills Programs

ASCDU houses the NCAA's Challenging Athletes' Minds for Personal Success Program (C.H.A.M.P.S.) and the NCAA Life Skills Program. The ASCDU staff, in collaboration with various other Department of Intercollegiate Athletics' units and campus resources, strives to provide a systematic personal development program designed to reach each student-athlete based on his or her individual needs. The focus of the program is on the individual academically, athletically and emotionally, and on the changing needs and skills of that individual in the years during college and after graduation. The menu of presentations, workshops and seminars is a comprehensive and balanced system of "life learning" programs promoted for use by each varsity sport team.

Highlights of the CHAMPS/Life Skills Programs:

- Support efforts of every student-athlete toward intellectual development and graduation
- Use athletics as preparation for success in life
- Meet the changing needs of student-athletes
- Promote respect for diversity among student-athletes
- Enhance interpersonal relationships in the lives of student-athletes
- Assist student-athletes in building positive self-esteem
- Enable student-athletes to make meaningful contributions to their communities
- Promote ownership by the student-athletes of their academic, athletic, personal and social responsibilities
- Enhance partnerships between the NCAA, member institutions and their communities for the purpose of education
- Encourage the development of leadership skills
